

JEFF SEABOLD, FAIA, NCARB, LEED AP
Capital Strategist & Fiduciary for the Built Environment

The Narrative For 24 years, Jeff Seabold has operated at the intersection of design authority, construction execution, and financial risk. Jeff is a Fellow of the AIA, a distinction held by only 3% of architects. He has served as a steward for over 400+ projects, ranging from sterile surgical suites to professional sports facilities.

The Triple Threat Advantage Jeff's unique profile as an Architect, Licensed General Contractor, and Developer allows him to close the "communication gap" that often exists between an institution's strategic vision and its fiscal reality. He does not just review drawings; he underwrites the risk. By speaking the languages of the boardroom and the job site, he ensures that complex system integrations do not compromise building science or the long-term performance of capital assets.

Stewardship at Scale Beyond his private practice, Jeff serves as an At-Large Director on the AIA National Board, providing strategic oversight for a $70 million annual operating budget. His leadership is defined by fiscal resilience, evidenced by his tenure as President of AIA Mississippi, where he turned a historical deficit into six-figure reserves within two years.
